

2019 MCA-BCAEO Annual Community Action Conference
“Putting the Promise into Action”
(Session Descriptions as of June 3)

Track: Best Practices/Model Programs

2020 Census Update

Allen Stansbury, Center for Community Futures

This conference session addresses the current status of the US Census, how CAAs can be involved, share correct information, address any questions CAAs have, and train attendees in techniques to engage customers on the Census. As program funding is based on Census data, Get Out the Count efforts, particularly in hard to count communities, will be critical to success of the 2020 US Census.

CAA Showcase: General

Kristine Miller, CA; Kathleen Nicosia, Macomb CA; Maralyn McNally, Macomb CA; Paula Huyser, Ottawa County CA; OLHSA Rep.

A look at model programs from around the network. Featured will be Ottawa County CAA's Intake for Holland Board of Public Works; Community Action (Battle Creek) Adult Education Program; OLHSA's Home Build project; and Macomb Community Action Trauma Smart program. Come hear what's working at your sister agencies!

CAA Showcase: Affordable Housing and Building Trades Employment

Christian Duell, Community Action Allegan County; Steve Schuster, Macomb CA; Stephanie Burgess, Macomb CA

Two single county agencies, one public, one private, one urban, the other rural, will present on their affordable housing and community development programs. Representatives from Macomb Community Action will provide an overview of their agency's broad housing services including Minor Home Repair, Housing Rehab, Home Accessibility, and Senior CHORE, while staff from Community Action Allegan County will highlight their Dual Development Program which builds homes with trainees in the building trades.

Executive Director Panel

Kate White, Michigan Community Action-Moderator

Learn from a panel of current CAA directors who will share insights and experiences on how they rise to the challenge of operating a Community Action Agency. How they approach problems, grow their organizations, manage staff, and forge community partnerships. Bring your questions!

How to be an Effective Board Member

Kate White, Michigan Community Action

Effective board service for Community Action goes beyond attending meetings and voting on required actions. This session will emphasize some of the soft skills needed to be a contributing and productive board member. Topics to be covered include how to effectively support the Executive Director/CEO, being an ambassador for the CAA, upholding the bylaws, engaging in committees, and asking the right questions.

Board Networking

Moderator, Kate White, Michigan Community Action

Join other CAA board members from around the state to compare notes and share ideas about driving the mission of Community Action in your communities. Enjoy the fellowship and experience from colleagues from around the state. Kate White will facilitate the discussions.

Volunteer Management

Kate Atkins, Wipfli

Volunteer management can be far more difficult than managing employees. Without the incentive of a paycheck, how do you ensure volunteers arrive on time, work the hours needed, and complete the work to the best of their ability? You must unlock their passions. Help them understand the impact the organization makes and the impact their role makes in the community. This session touches on:

- Volunteer Recruitment
- Orientation and Training
- Demonstrating Impact/Motivation
- Volunteer Positions
- Volunteer Handbooks
- Volunteer Evaluation and Recognition or Removal

Conflicts of Interest

Jonathan Cohen, CAPLAW

Conflicts of interest raise governance, tax, and regulatory issues for CAAs. They also raise concerns in the mind of the public and members of the media, potentially undermining the organization's reputation and good standing. This session will define conflicts of interest for staff and board members and what goes into formulating a workable conflict of interest policy.

Leading with Emotional Intelligence

Rebecca Kraus, Rebecca Kraus & Associates, LLC

Why does emotional intelligence matter? Because at the core of every outstanding leader are the abilities to connect, achieve, inspire and act with resilience. This session will examine the best practices of an emotionally intelligent leader to give yourself and your agency a winning edge.

Everyone in Your Agency is an Ambassador!

Kate Atkins, Wipfli

CAAs need board members, staff and volunteers to be ambassadors in the community to spread good news and information about Community Action. Today it is more important than ever to have diverse funding streams. Federal and state funding can be erratic, so organizations need to find ways of generating their own funds. But where do you begin? Transitioning from a culture that is reliant on grants to one that is donor-centric is a huge change. A perfect fund development plan will typically fail if the agency's culture isn't aligned. Join this session and leave prepared to help everyone in your agency become an ambassador for your agency.

Understanding Families in Crisis and the Important Role of CAA Front Line Staff

Tim Cusack, Consultant

Perhaps you've heard the phrase, "The brain has a mind of its own." Well, it's true, and especially so during times of crisis. This workshop will help you understand what's happening in our brains, and why we behave the way we do during times of crisis, stress, shock, and hopelessness. Agency board members will gain a deeper understanding and appreciation for the vicarious trauma CAA staff can experience as they help clients deal with often traumatic and desperate situations at home and in the community. The presenter will offer ways you can support your CAA management staff and those who carry the burden of client experiences and expectations.

Track: Comms/Marketing/Fundraising

Taking Advocacy to the Next Level

Robb Kennedy, Capitol Affairs and Kate White, Michigan Community Action

Beyond building relationships with members of Congress and the Michigan state legislators, learn about cultivating bill sponsors and legislative champions and to understand how to court committee chairs and become an influencer. Legislative strategy, alliances, and positioning will be the key concepts shared in this workshop.

Photography for Nonprofits Part 1

Laura Huth Rhoades, do good Consulting

You've heard the old adage: a picture is worth a 1,000 words. But do the images your group uses really connect with and impact your audiences? Are they really grabbing people's attention and telling quick and compelling stories your work and impact? It's never been more important to use powerful, high-impact photos to showcase your work. If your photos could use a pick-me-up, this hands-on, learn-by-seeing-and-doing workshop is the place to be! You don't need a fine arts degree, a $1,000 camera, or to hire a professional to take A+ photos. Attend this class and you'll get eye-opening and super-simple techniques to use on the devices you already have in your pockets and hands – your cell phones and tablets. Leave itching to take what you learned to make your website, print materials, and social media sing!

o Session structure: A 2-part 3-hour total workshop. Attendees must attend both parts

Photography for Nonprofits Part 2

Laura Huth Rhoades, do good Consulting

Part 2

o Session structure: A 2-part 3-hour total workshop. Attendees must attend both parts

Storytelling 101: Weaving words that wow audiences Laura Huth Rhoades, do good Consulting

Captivating storytelling is a powerful tool that can create major impact on donors, the media, and the public. In this 1-hour workshop, you'll learn how to watch for and develop strong stories about your work and impact. Topics covered will include persuasive styles, developing hooks, marrying visuals and words for deepest impact, and how to apply stories across various media such as your website, e-newsletters, fundraising letters, and social media.

Storytelling 102: Putting pen to paper - Let's write some stories! Laura Huth Rhoades, do good Consulting

With the fundamentals of great storytelling now in hand, attend Storytelling 201 and put pen to paper (or fingers to keyboard) and begin to write some stories about your organization's work. This 2-hour session will be an exciting blend of teaching, instructor feedback, peer review, and group sharing. You'll be exhilarated as you watch as your stories – and those of your peers – come to life, pull on your heartstrings, and inspire you and your team to create additional stories (print, digital, and video) to use across all your organization's communications platforms to engage donors, media, clients, volunteers, and community members.

(NOTE: Storytelling 102 is a 2-hour, deep-dive, hands-on workshop. Attendance at the 102 workshop requires that attendees either attended Laura's Storytelling workshop at the 2018 conference, or the 101 session at the 2019 conference.)

Writing Great Fundraising Letters – Inside and Out! Laura Huth Rhoades, do good Consulting

With mailboxes filled with advertising slicks, junk mail, and endless appeals for money, it might seem impossible to get your fundraising letter to the top of the pile – and opened. In this session, I'll teach you the tried-and-true techniques of preparing fundraising appeal letters that recipients can't resist. With a few easy techniques, a bit of elbow grease, and a long-term vision, you can increase reply rates and see donations – and donation amounts – rise. We'll cover things inside and out, literally! Past session participants have seen response rates to letters increase over 5 times using what they learned in this workshop!

Hosting Unforgettable Events: Getting people there and wanting to come back! Laura Huth Rhoades, do good Consulting

Golf outings, galas, Walk-a-Thons, oh my! Let's be honest: do special events really work? In this high-energy 1.5-hour session, I'll get down to the brass tacks of making any type of special event create big returns for organizations. I'll cover why and when to hold events, whether to hold fundraising or friend-raising events, and how to create events so memorable they'll create community buzz, a following, and more than a couple bucks. We'll cover everything from setting goals to looking at the small details, and we'll have plenty of time for questions about your specific plans and events. Leave with inspiring tips, techniques, and tricks for pulling off flawless events to build your organization for years to come.

Creating a Marketing Plan for your Agency and Why it's Important! Frances Whitney, NEMCSA

In this session you will learn how to keep your community members, partners, legislators, and funders engaged with community action by creating and implementing a simple marketing plan for your agency.

The people you serve in your communities depend on you to be there and having strong donor relationships and strategy can improve the sustainability of your organization. You know that it is getting harder to impact the community when relying solely on federal and state funding. You need a plan that allows donors to accomplish their philanthropic dreams through your organization. Join this session to gather tools for creating a dream catching fund development plan, one that helps you engage the donors you need in order to have the most significant impact on your community.

Track: FACSPRO/TechnologyBIASurvivor! Disaster Recovery Planning*John Hey, Rehmann

Does your business have a disaster recovery plan in place in case of an emergency? Do you know what is a reasonable amount of downtime for your organization or how much data loss you can withstand? If you do not know the answers to these questions, we encourage you to attend this Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery presentation. You will discover the benefits of a Business Impact Analysis and learn about the tools needed to ensure your organization is ready in case something was to happen — BIASurvivor, not a statistic!

Ask an Admin FACSPRO Q & AKeith Schafer, Michigan Community Action

This informal question and answer session will include MCA IT director Keith Schafer and a panel of current CAA system admins who lead their agencies' FACSPRO data collection and client tracking software. Bring your questions about how to get more out of FACSPRO!

Share Point TrainingKris Schoenow, Andrew Kornecky, BCAEO

Session description pending

Ad Hoc Reporting and Pivot TablesKeith Schafer, Michigan Community Action;
Jeremy Biddle, BCAEO

Take your data collection to the next level! We will discuss how to think through the process of what we want to ask of our data. Then, we will demonstrate how to translate that thought into creating an ad-hoc report in FACSPRO. We will include tips, tricks, and things to avoid when developing and running your ad-hoc reports. Finally, we will then take that ad-hoc to the next level and do some summarizing of the data using some built-in features of Excel. We encourage you to bring your own laptop with access to FACSPRO and excel so that you can do some hands-on work through the examples. The reports that are created in this session will then be used in a following session, Displaying & Analyzing Your Data Using Dashboards, to turn the data into visual dashboards.

Displaying & Analyzing Your Data using DashboardsKeith Schafer, Michigan Community Action;
Jeremy Biddle, BCAEO

During this session participants will use skills they have learned during the Ad-Hoc Reporting and Pivot Table Session to begin crafting internal and external Data Dashboards. We will cover data collection techniques and data analysis methods that can be used to question your agency's data. Additionally, participants will use basic Excel skills to start building visuals to compile into their Dashboard. We will discuss the different purposes for displaying data, and options for how to create powerful visuals, previewing online platforms such as Microsoft Power BI and Google Data Studio.

- This session will contain content that was covered during the BCAEO Academy Round #3.

Cybersecurity and Security Awareness

Joe Malott and Nathan Gottlieb, Yeo & Yeo

Small and medium-size entities are highly vulnerable to cybersecurity threats. Unfortunately, many small organizations do not have the resources to adequately protect against potential threats such as ransomware. Learn how a Security Information and Event Management (SIEM) system can defend your organization against the constantly-evolving cyber threat landscape. And while a SIEM system can help protect your organization and assets, it means nothing if employees unknowingly compromise your security integrity. Learn how a robust Security Awareness Training program can supplement your IT security efforts and make your organization as impenetrable as possible.

Embracing Technology

Roger McCann, Community Action Kentucky

Our presenter is the executive director of the Kentucky Community Action association and he has years of experience implementing technology solutions of all types to make CAAs more efficient and effective. He'll review such topics as Office 365 and Microsoft 365 integration options; Microsoft non-profit discounts; cloud-based phone systems; data reporting and visualizations; integrating the use of mobile devices; utilizing video conferencing solutions; and more.

Kentucky State Association's Client Management System

Roger McCann, Community Action Kentucky

Roger will discuss the process the Kentucky state association went through when they decided to build their own client tracking system instead of purchasing one off the shelf. He will include descriptions of the system capabilities (client intake, outcome and service tracking, reporting abilities, etc.), and how they are adapting to the requirements of ROMA Next Gen reporting.

Track: Customer Service/Front Line Staff

Case Management for Everyone and Volunteers

Jordana Shakoor, JYS Consultants

In this session, front line staff will learn how to help their clients prepare for a future that is uncertain by helping them to engage critical thinking skills necessary for short and long-term objectives. Session goals and objectives are to:

- Teach front line staff and volunteers the importance of feeling and building positive interactions
- Help front line staff and social workers help distressed customers find training and educational opportunities
- Teach critical thinking skills which are tools that case managers can cultivate in themselves, and pass along to their clients
- Teach strategies that will help case managers and their clients set short and long-term goals

How to Disarm Hardcore Customers

Jordana Shakoor, JYS Consultants

Customer service techniques in this workshop will focus on difficult and challenging customer interactions. Participants learn how to disarm and de-escalate hardcore customers with positive techniques that work. Main topics include:

- Customer Service Techniques revisited
- Who are "hardcore" customers and why
- Don't be led astray by negative attitudes
- Learn to model the behavior you want

Diversity in the Workplace

Jordana Shakoor, JYS Consultants

This course is designed to actively involve and stimulate a diverse group of individuals whose gender, socio-economic class, physical ability, heritage, intelligence, lifestyle, age, race, sexual orientation, religion, and ethnicity may represent either very different or very similar perspectives. Participants learn and discuss the effects of prejudice and discrimination in the workplace. The main points of discussion include:

- Diversity in the workplace as a positive concept
- Respect, patience, tolerance, and understanding are essential in the workplace
- How each of us is culturally unique
- The effects of prejudice and discrimination
- Reasons to celebrate diversity in the workplace

Working in Teams

Jordana Shakoor, JYS Consultants

This training is designed specifically for staff members. Participants learn how to become better team-players in the workplace. They learn five (5) coaching styles and which ones they prefer or resist. Participants/players learn more productive ways to cope with workplace conflicts that may hinder the team from reaching its goals. Through self-awareness exercises, participants also learn how to solve problems by clarifying real issues and roadblocks. They learn how and when to take initiative. In this course, participants will learn the following:

- A positive attitude is best for the whole team
- Five (5) Coaching Styles
- How to take initiative and still work within the team
- Ways to promote excellence and increase productivity
- Skills that will help resolve interpersonal problems and their causes
- To resolve or eliminate credibility problems by clarifying real issues and roadblocks that may hinder the team

Track: Housing/Community Development

Overview of Housing and Community Economic Development Kevin Kelly, Community Action Partnership

This session will provide an overview of the various types of community economic development strategies that CAAs have used successfully around the country, funding sources, potential obstacles, ways to overcome them, and project examples. It will also provide a similar overview of housing development projects that CAAs have undertaken, covering the various types of housing projects (single family, multi-family) sources of financing, potential roles, and project examples.

Microenterprise Lending

Kevin Kelly, Community Action Partnership

Learn what you need to know about operating a successful microenterprise or small business loan fund, including where to get loan capital, the experience you need on staff, loan policies and procedures, portfolio management and debt collection, credit reporting, and what criteria are important when analyzing a loan request. Presentation will include some real-life case studies that attendees will review and discuss whether they would approve a loan or not.

Operating a Social EnterpriseKevin Kelly, Community Action Partnership

A growing number of CAAs operate a social enterprise and more are starting to take a look at the possibility. Depending on the goals of the CAA, social enterprises can generate a substantial income, that can be used to provide services to more people, or it can create jobs for people in the community who have substantial barriers to employment. We will look at examples of the social enterprises that CAAs have created, why they chose them and what other benefits have resulted from these efforts.

Tiny Houses/Prefab Housing DevelopmentRev. Faith Fowler, Cass Community Services

The workshop will explore how tiny houses have been used historically and across the country and how Cass Community Social Services has employed them to create a development which provides both affordable housing and home ownership for extremely poor people.

McKinney-Vento Act: Homelessness Services for Children/StudentsPam Kies-Lowe, Michigan Department of Education and Julie Ratekin, Wayne Metro

This session will acquaint attendees with the services that can be provided to homeless school-aged children through the requirements of the McKinney-Vento Act.

HUD's Continuum of Care ProgramAmanda Sternberg, Homeless Action Network of Detroit

This presentation will provide a general overview of HUD's Continuum of Care program funding and how this funding is used to serve persons experiencing homelessness. Participants will learn the types of housing and service programs Continuum of Care funding may be used, who may be served by these programs, and how funding is applied for. Participants will also learn about the overall Continuum of Care process, and how the process works in the City of Detroit.

Blight and Restoration—A Community Redevelopment ApproachMandy Zalich, Westmoreland (PA) Community Action

Standing at a construction site, getting ready to create new, fresh buildings for a community, the Westmoreland Community Action team was watching history, and good materials getting swarmed up in the demolition and heading to a landfill. "We have to be able to do better than this" was the response of the team, and what followed was the planning and implementation of a social enterprise aimed at demolishing buildings, while saving materials, fixtures, and history from landfills. Learn about the process, structure, and outcomes of the venture to date in this training.

Brownfield Redevelopment for Your Community ProjectsRoman Wilson, Fishbeck, Thompson, Carr & Huber

Taking on a brownfield redevelopment project can be daunting, but there are opportunities to make a difference! And it may be easier than you think! An expert in a nonprofit community development will discuss steps to ensure success.

The presenters will outline and discuss two of MSHDA's single family homeowner programs: MSHDA Mod and the Neighborhood Enhancement Program. We'll also feature an overview of Michigan's housing trends/needs and the results of the 2019 NEP housing survey. In addition, there will be an interactive discussion regarding the development of a formal definition of affordable/attainable housing in both rural and/or urban areas.

Track: HR/FinanceUniform Guidance Update*Denes Tobie, Wipfli

Join this session for a discussion of the general provisions and administrative requirements of the Uniform Guidance including recent changes. We'll highlight standards for financial management systems and internal controls, property and equipment, procurement and reporting and record retention requirements.

Cost Allocation/Indirect CostsDenes Tobie, Wipfli

Cost allocation is the organization's method of allocating costs to its programs and supporting services to the extent each program or service bears its fair share in accordance with the relative benefits received. The organization's defined method of allocation should be simple, straightforward, and comply with its approved policies and procedures. Using the Uniform Guidance regulations, we will review allowable methods of cost allocation including direct costing and indirect cost rates and discuss suggestions on how your organization may use cost allocation to run more efficiently and effectively.

What's AllowableDenes Tobie, Wipfli

The cost principles cover the costs that a grant-funded program can charge to federal grant awards. General principles, allowable costs, unallowable costs, and costs that require prior approval will be discussed.

Dashboarding (Agency-Wide Budgeting and Financial Dashboards*)Denes Tobie, Wipfli

Join this session to discuss two critical tools for financial planning and ongoing monitoring – budgeting and dashboards. This session will address the nuts and bolts of building on and even more important, the role the agency-wide budget plays in agency planning and ongoing fiscal health. We will also focus on agency dashboards to assist board and staff with ongoing monitoring of the agency's fiscal and program status.

Total Rewards: Moving Beyond Base CompensationShelly Fine, Wipfli

Total rewards encompass everything associated with the overall employment experience of employees. They transcend direct and indirect compensation. In this session we will identify and discuss the five key components of a total rewards system and the mindset organizations must have to be competitive in today's marketplace.

Talent Management & Succession PlanningShelly Fine, Wipfli

People—the right people—are your competitive differentiator and advantage. As demographic shifts escalate and the job market improves, talent assessment and succession planning are a critical priority. Retention and development of talent needs to be a core competency of the human resources strategy. In this session, we will discuss what your organization needs to be doing—today—to be prepared for the future.

Performance Management: Coaching for PerformanceShelly Fine, Wipfli

Performance management is the process of creating and maintaining an environment of accountability to enable employees to perform to the best of their abilities. It is a process that begins when an individual starts the employment relationship and ends when the individual leaves. In this session, we will explore what prevents an employee from achieving effective levels of performance and how managers can engage in effective coaching to assist employees in achieving personal and professional success.

Why People Leave: Addressing Engagement ChallengesShelly Fine, Wipfli

Strong programs with skilled leaders and cohesive teams can create an environment where more impactful factors than pay drive employee retention, engagement and results. With a labor market that's more competitive than ever, it's vital to create and nurture an atmosphere where you can unleash the power of your people. This session focuses on methods to diagnose and address common engagement challenges to begin planning for an environment of lower stress, less need for enforcement and correction, and clearer priorities.

Tuning In: How Creating an Employee Engagement Committee Can Increase Communication and Support Staff Retention StrategiesWayne Metro Rep

Find out how one of Michigan's largest CAA is improving employee morale and retention with an innovative "engagement" committee.

MPSC UpdateAnne Armstrong Cusack, MPSC

This session will provide updated information on the Michigan Energy Assistance Program and the role of Community Action Agencies in distributing energy assistance funds.

Assurance 16 UpdateTBA

Assurance 16 funding is allocated to the Michigan Energy Assistance Program (MEAP) to provide households applying for assistance supportive services providing energy education, financial/budgeting education, as well as assisting participants with utilizing Weatherization (if eligible), energy waste reduction programs and energy efficiency measures. This session will discuss the allowable self-sufficiency expenditures including a needs assessment, budgeting assistance, energy education, and educating households on program criteria to participate in affordable payment plans (APPs) offered by the utilities.

Making Utility Assistance Coherent: How to Use Human Centered Design to Improve Eligibility, Enrollment and Referrals Adam Selzer & Alan Williams from Civilla
Alicia Ramon & Mia Harnos from Wayne Metro

Most will agree that the traditional approach to utility assistance service delivery has been mostly “transactional” – a one-time interaction to determine eligibility where documentation is collected, and assistance payment is made – end of story. How might a human-centered approach to utility assistance help people move through the helping system, and break cycles of poverty?

Wayne Metro and Civilla, a Detroit-based design studio, came together to find out. Over the past year, we conducted several experimental pilots in partnership with clients and staff, identifying and isolating many common barriers to building momentum through the helping system and toward sustainability. We found that staff resources were being used up on eligibility determination alone, with little left for supportive, wrap around service integration or the resource navigation which is key to achieving long-term sustainability.

- Join us at this session to learn about the first Civilla studies, what we are working on next, and how it may shape a new human centered model for MEAP. We will also share innovations Wayne Metro has implemented as a result of the study, which we believe are relevant for CAAs statewide:
- Reducing eligibility documentation requirements from 20+ to 5 documents, while still meeting all compliance objectives
- Enhancements and expansion of services to offer evening hours, weekends, telephonic coaching and case management
- Leveraging smartphones to fill out applications, taking photos of documents and sending via SMS text, and two-way, real time digital communications
- Integrated service menu offerings based on “client choice”

ROMA CollaborativeJeremy Biddle, BCAEO

A regular business meeting of the committee. (Thursday at 10:30 PM)

Taking ROMA to the Next LevelJarle Crocker, Community Action Partnership

ROMA is more than just meeting the requirements through the Organizational Standards or doing parts of the ROMA Cycle. It is an integrative, ongoing, and agency-wide process that is embedded in the culture of the agency when fully implemented. This session will cover how agencies can take ROMA to the next level by going “beyond the basics” and creating a results-oriented organizational culture.

Advanced Community Needs Assessments and Strategic PlanningJarle Crocker, Community Action Partnership

Join the Community Action Partnership’s Jarle Crocker to learn more about Community Needs Assessments and Strategic Planning in the Community Action framework. This is a session beyond the basic concepts. An understanding of the ROMA Cycle is an important pre-requisite to this workshop.

What Every CAA Should Know about Logic Models and Action Plans and How They Fit into the Annual ReportSeptember Ward, BCAEO; Jeremy Biddle, BCAEO; Keith Schafer, Michigan Community Action

Your annual report may not be as strong as it could be. This session will help you understand the importance of logic models and action plans and how they can help you create a strong annual report. Staff who enter data into FACSPRO as well as staff who run reports from that data will benefit from this session, but everyone can attend to learn more about how to create a strong annual report.

Advanced ROMA for ROMA TrainersJarle Crocker, Community Action Partnership

This advanced level session will take a deeper dive into the concepts of ROMA, specifically for Nationally Certified ROMA Trainers. Topics to be covered include data analysis at all stages of the ROMA cycle, ROMA for community level work, and how a local Theory of Change can promote ROMA at all levels of the organization. ROMA Trainers will also engage in a discussion on training techniques using the available resources.

Skill Building for ROMA ImplementersJarle Crocker, Community Action Partnership

This session builds on the skills learned through the NCRI certification. Participants will learn strategies to equip them to support ongoing implementation of ROMA within the agency, as well as overcome obstacles of implementation.
